8 O'CLOCK.

Gladstone Lies in a Precarious Condition.

His Physicians Are Alarmed and Anxiously Waiting.

The Hudson River Tunnel Proves a Failure.

Gladstone's Condition.

London, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Gladstone writes from Downing street as follows: "Sir William Jenner (physician to the queen) has been summoned and will be here at 3 this afternoon; until then no fresh report of Gladstone's condition can be given."

LATER.

At 2:30 p. m. Gladstone's condition was unchanged and his feverish state continues. Sir William Jenner anxiously awaited.

A bulletin issued from Downing street at 10 minutes past 4 this afternoon says that Gladstone is doing as well as could be expected, but his fever continues. The bulletin is signed by Sir Wm. Jenner and Andrew Clark.

Dr. Andrew Clark, who passed the night at premier Gladstone's house, reports that Gladstone is rather better, but his febrile state continues. There have been numerous callers at the house since seven this morning. Policemen have been stationed at the end of Downing street from an early hour and, in accordance with instructions from the premier's medical advisors, no vehicles are allowed to pass the house.

The Hudson River Tunnel.

New York, August 2.—The coffer dam built at the shaft of the Hudson river tunnel to recover the bodies of the men buried beneath the fallen roof of the connecting chamber, has proved unsuccessful. It was found that after the dam had been excavated to the depth of about fifteen feet, water rose in the inclosure and entered in such a volume that the rotary pump and sponges were found inadequate to carry it away. At first it was supposed that the water came from a sewer in the vicinity, but when the tide in the bottom of the dam became again flooded the plan of sending caisson in the dam and thus forcing the earth and water by compressed air is suggested.

The Greeks.

Athens, Aug. 2.—The Greek government intended publishing, yesterday, ordinances for the mobilization of the army, but in consequence of the advice of the powers, decided to postpone the measure for the present.

BEER.

Is it Intoxicating or is it Not.

[Josh Billings.]

I have finally come to the conclusion that lager beer as a beverage is not intoxicating.

I have been told by a German who said he had drunk it all his life long, just to try the experiment, and was obliged to go home entirely sober in the morning. I have seen this same man drink eighteen glasses, and, if he was drunk, it was in German, and nobody could understand it.

It is proper enough to state that this man kept a lager beer saloon, and could have no object in stating what was not strictly true.

I believe him to the full extent of my ability. I never drank but three glasses of lager in my life, and that made my head twirl as tho' it was hung on the end of a string, but I was told it was owing to my hile being out of place; and I guess that it was so, for I never biled over was than when I did when I got home that nite. My wife that I was goin' to die, and I was afraid that I shouldn't, for it seemed as tho' everything I had ever eaten in my life was coming to the surface; and I believed that if my wife hadn't pulled off my boots just as she did they would have come thundering up, too.

O, how sick I was fourteen years ago, and can taste it now.

I never had so much experience in so short a time.

If any man shud tell me that lager beer was not intoxicating, I shud believe him; but if he shud tell me that I wasn't drunk that nite, but that my stomach was bit of order, I shud ask him to skate over a few words just how a man felt and acted when he was set up.

If I warn't drunk that nite, I had some of the most natural symptoms that a man ever had and kept sober.

In the first place, I was about eighty rods from where I drank the lager beer to my house, and I was just over two hours on the road, and a hole busted through each one of my pants—loose neez, and didn't have any hat, and tried to open the door by the bell pull and hiccuped awfully, and saw everything in the room trying to get around to the back side of me, and sitting down on a chair I didn't wait long enough for it to get exactly under me when it was going round, and I set down a little too soon and missed the chair about twelve inches, and couldn't get up soon enough to take the next one that come along; and that ain't all, my wife and I was drunk as a bear, and, as I sed before, I began to spin up things freely.

If lager beer is not intoxicating it used me most almighty mean, that I know.

Still I hardly think that lager beer is intoxicating, for I have been told so; and I am probably the only man living who ever drunk any when his liver is not plumb.

I don't want to say anything against a harmless beverage, but if over I drink any more, it will be with my hands tied behind, and my mouth pried open.

I don't think lager beer is intoxicating, but if I remember right, I think it tasted to me like a glass of soap suds that a pickle had been put tew soak in.

Dr. Tanner Receives a Complimentary Cablegram.

Death of Maj. John E. Simpson, a Prominent Railroad Man.

Sir Bartel Frere to be Recalled from the Governorship.

Affairs in India Remain in an Unsettled Condition.

TANNER'S TRICK.

He Complains of Feeling Weak, but is Determined to Hold Out.

New York, Aug. 2.—For the first time since he commenced to fast, Dr. Tanner admitted this morning that he felt very weak. He said his stomach was in a bad condition, but expressed his ability to accomplish the undertaking. His eyes were lusterless, tongue furred and face pinched and haggard, still his watchers asserted that he had somewhat improved since Sunday. He had suffered from nausea three times since midnight. Small quantities of mineral water were administered during the night, and early this morning he swallowed two ounces of very hot water. At noon he was quietly resting.

He received the following cable dispatch from Paris: "Don't waste strength driving out; shut off all speculators and have only your doctors and attendants. Your experiment is watched here with great interest by scientists and ridiculed by fools. Hot weather is against you. Have courage, brave fellow, and hold on. Wish you success."

[Signed.] DR. MARSHALL SIMS.

His physician inclined to the opinion that the cable was sent by J. Marshall Sims, M. D., but Dr. Tanner, who seemed pleased with it, rather doubted it had come from that physician.

LOST HIS SPEECH.

A Singular Case for Medical Experts to Account for.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 1.—The most singular case that has come under the notice of the medical fraternity for many years is that of Dr. Thomas Rose. About ten days ago he was missed from the breakfast-table, and his landlady, becoming alarmed at his absence, sent her husband to his store in search of him. At eight o'clock he found the store still closed, and none of his neighbors had seen anything of him since the day before. Knowing that he was in the habit of opening soon after five o'clock, they went to his lodging-room, and through a chink in the shutter, saw him lying on his face on the floor, apparently dead, with a pot of coins scattered about him. They forced an entrance to the room and found that he was unconscious, and evidently dying from the effect of poison. Physicians were summoned, and they pronounced his case one of acute vertigo, and thought his recovery doubtful. He remained unconscious for two days, and when he became conscious he was speechless, and although he has recovered completely he cannot speak a word, and there is nothing to indicate that he will ever regain the use of his vocal organs. He converses freely with the aid of a pencil, and says that he closed his store at 10 o'clock the night before he was found and took the cash drawer into his sleeping room. He was in the act of turning on the gas to count the contents of the drawer, when he suddenly felt a dizziness come over him and knew nothing more until he opened his eyes and saw a nurse sitting by him on the second day. He says his tongue refuses to move to his will, and he can not articulate the easiest sounds. His physicians are studying the case carefully.

Recalled.

London, August 2.—In the house of Lords this evening, Earl of Kimberley announced that Sir Bartel Frere had been recalled from the governorship of the Cape of Good Hope. He said there had never existed between the government and Sir Bartel Frere the harmony essential for the public interest. A Bombay dispatch, dated to-day, says: "Communications with Calcutta interrupted. The telegraph wire has been cut between Peshawar and Sattelband."

Public Debt Statement.

Washington.—The debt statement shows the decrease of the public debt during July to be $5,578,053; cash in treasury $193,590,493; gold certificates $7,884,600; silver certificates $13,889,200; certificates of deposit outstanding $15,585,000; legal tenders outstanding $346,681,016; fractional currency outstanding $7,205,710; refunding certificates outstanding $1,167,450; debt less cash in treasury $1,348,596,241.

Attacks in India.

London, August 2.—A Calcutta correspondent declares it is the general impression that General Sir Frederick Haines, Commander in Chief of the military forces in India, is greatly to blame for the disaster to General Burrow's command.

The Playful Revolver.

Lawrence, Pa., August 2.—While Frank Stevenson, aged ten, and his brother Willis, children of Wm. Stevenson, of Columbia, were playing "burglars" with their father's revolver, the weapon was discharged, and Frank was instantly killed.

His Last Trip.

St. Louis, Mo., August 2.—Major John E. Simpson, general manager of the Vanderbilt railroad, died this morning without having returned to consciousness since first attacked, Saturday. The remains will be taken to Michigan City, Ind., for burial.

Cornice Carnivale.

Freeport, Ill., August 2.—Last night a cornice, loaned by the high wind, fell to the sidewalk, killing Miss Bertha Dietrick and dangerously injuring a Miss Mezenkamp.

Removing the Obelisk.

New York, August 2.—The work of removing the obelisk from the ship which brought it here from Egypt was begun to-day.

Death of a Seaman.

New York, August 2.—John McBride, a seaman taken from the Havana steamer Major, died in the quarantine hospital to-day.

CONDENNNED TELEGRAMS.

The city of Montreal arrived from New York at Queenstown.

Trickett and Hanlan, the oarsmen, have made a second deposit of £50.

The city of Chester from Liverpool brought $525,000 of foreign gold coin to New York.

Another one hundred amnestied communists arrived at Paris from New Caledonia.

The steamer Marseilles was towed to London by the steamer City of Chester, with a shaft broken.

Col. Bodine, captain of the American rifle team, which won in Ireland, has arrived home in New York.

Arrived at New York: The steamships Somerset, from Bristol, Montic from Marseilles and Harnd from Copenhagen.

Arrived at Queenstown: The steamers Pennsylvania, from Philadelphia, in charge of the first officer. Capt. Harris died on the passage.

A Paris correspondent telegraphs that if the ports promptly settles the Montenegrin question, naval demonstrations by the powers will be suspended.

There is being distributed in Turkish military circles a printed account of the Afghan disaster, charging the British troops with cowardice and their leaders with utter incapacity.

At Calcutta one leader, Rumpu, of the rebellion, has been shot and several sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The rebellion, however, shows no sign of collapsing, as the British troops cannot stand the unhealthy climate.

Gladstone Lies in a Precarious Condition.

His Physicians Are Alarmed and Anxiously Waiting.

The Hudson River Tunnel Proves a Failure.

Gladstone's Condition.

London, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Gladstone writes from Downing street as follows: "Sir William Jenner (physician to the queen) has been summoned and will be here at 3 this afternoon; until then no fresh report of Gladstone's condition can be given."

At 2:30 p. m. Gladstone's condition was unchanged and his feverish state continues. Sir William Jenner anxiously awaited.

A bulletin issued from Downing street at 15 minutes past 4 this afternoon says that Gladstone is doing as well as could be expected, but his fever continues. The bulletin is signed by Sir Wm. Jenner and Andrew Clark.

Dr. Andrew Clark, who passed the night at premier Gladstone's house, reports that Gladstone is rather better, but his febrile state continues. There have been numerous callers at the house since seven this morning. Policemen have been stationed at the end of Downing street from an early hour and, in accordance with instructions from the premier's medical advisors, no vehicles are allowed to pass the house.

The Hudson River Tunnel.

New York, August 2.—The coffer dam built at the shaft of the Hudson river tunnel to recover the bodies of the men buried beneath the fallen roof of the connecting chamber, has proved unsuccessful. It was found that after the dam had been excavated to the depth of about fifteen feet, water rose in the inclosure and entered in such a volume that the rotary pump and sponges were found inadequate to carry it away. At first it was supposed that the water came from a sewer in the vicinity, but when the tide in the bottom of the dam became again flooded the plan of sending caisson in the dam and thus forcing the earth and water by compressed air is suggested.

The Greeks.

Athens, Aug. 2.—The Greek government intended publishing, yesterday, ordinances for the mobilization of the army, but in consequence of the advice of the powers, decided to postpone the measure for the present.

BEER.

Is It Intoxicating or Is It Not.

[Josh Billings.]

I have finally come to the conclusion that lager beer as a beverage is not intoxicating.

I have been told by a German who said he had drunk it all night long, just to try the experiment, and was obliged to go home entirely sober in the morning. I have seen this same man drink eighteen glasses, and, if he was drunk, it was in German, and nobody could understand it.

It is proper enough to state that this man kept a lager beer saloon, and could have no object in stating what was not strictly true.

I believe him to the full extent of my ability. I never drank but three glasses of lager in my life, and that was made on the end of a string, but I was told it was owing to my bile being out of place; and I guess that it was so, for I never biled over was than when I did when I got home that night. My wife that I was going to die, and I was afraid that I shouldn't, for it seemed as tho' everything I had ever eaten in my life was coming to the surface; and I believed that if my wife hadn't pulled off my boots just as she did they would have come thundering up, too.

The Best I Ever Knew Of.

J. G. Starkey, a prominent and influential citizen of Iowa City, says: "I have had dyspepsia and liver complaint for several years, and have used every remedy I could hear of, without any relief whatever, until I saw your Shiloh's Vitalizer advertised in our paper, and was persuaded to try it. I am happy to state that it has entirely cured me. It is certainly the best remedy I ever knew of." Price 75 cents. For sale by Dreier & Pro.

O, how sick I was fourteen years ago, and can taste it now. I never had so much experience in so short a time.

If any man should tell me that lager beer was not intoxicating, I should believe him; but if he should tell me that I wasn't drunk that night, but that my stomach was out of order, I should ask him to state over a few words just how a man felt and acted when he was set up.

If I wasn't drunk that night, I had some of the most natural symptoms that a man ever had and kept sober.

In the first place, I was about eighty rods from where I drank the lager beer to my house, and I was just over two hours on the road, and a hole busted through each one of my pantaloons, and didn't have any hat, and tried to open the door by the bell pull and hiccuped awfully, and saw everything in the room trying to get around to the back side of me, and sitting down on a chair I didn't wait long enough for it to get exactly under me when it was going round, and I set down a little too soon and missed the chair about twelve inches, and couldn't get up soon enough to take the next one that came along; and that ain't all, my wife said I was drunk as a bear, and, as I said before, I began to spin up things freely.

If lager beer is not intoxicating it used me most almighty mean, that I know.

Still I hardly think that lager beer is intoxicating, for I have been told so; and I am probably the only man living who ever drunk any when his liver is not plumb.

I don't want to say anything against a harmless beverage, but if ever I drink any more, it will be with my hands tied behind, and my mouth pried open.

I don't think lager beer is intoxicating, but if I remember right, I think it tasted to me like a glass of soap suds that a pickle had been put to soak in.

Second Edition. 4 O'CLOCK.

Dr. Tanner Receives a Complimentary Cablegram.

Death of Maj. John E. Simpson, a Prominent Railroad Man.

Sir Bartel Frere to be Recalled from the Governorship.

Affairs in India Remain in an Unsettled Condition.

TANNER'S TRICK.

He Complains of Feeling Weak, but is Determined to Hold Out.

New York, Aug. 2.—For the first time since he commenced to fast, Dr. Tanner admitted this morning that he felt very weak. He said his stomach was in a bad condition, but expressed his ability to accomplish the undertaking. His eyes were lusterless, tongue furred and face pinched and haggard, still his watchers asserted that he had somewhat improved since Sunday. He had suffered from nausea three times since midnight. Small quantities of mineral water were administered during the night, and early this morning he swallowed two ounces of very hot water. At noon he was quietly resting.

He received the following cable dispatch from Paris: "Don't waste strength driving out; shut off all spectators and have only your doctors and attendants. Your experiment is watched here with great interest by scientists and ridiculed by fools. Hot weather is against you. Have courage, brave fellow, and hold on. Wish you success."

[Signed.] DR. MARSON SIMS.

His physicians inclined to the opinion that the cable was sent by J. Marvin Sims, M. D., but Dr. Tanner, who seemed pleased with it, rather doubted it had come from that physician.

London, August 2.—In the house of Lords this evening, Earl of Kimberley announced that Sir Bartel Frere had been recalled from the governorship of the Cape of Good Hope. He said there had never existed between the government and Sir Bartel Frere the harmony essential for the public interest. A Bombay dispatch, dated to-day, says: "Communications with Cabul interrupted. The telegraph wire has been cut between Pezwan and Sattleband."

Public Debt Statement.

Washington.—The debt statement shows the decrease of the public debt during July to be $5,576,053; cash in treasury $198,890,405; gold certificates, $7,884,680; silver certificates $12,689,290; certificates of deposit outstanding $15,535,000; legal tenders outstanding $346,681,016; fractional currency outstanding $7,205,710; refunding certificates outstanding $1,167,450; debt less cash in treasury $1,936,596,241.

Affairs in India.

London, August 2.—A Calcutta correspondent declares it is the general impression that General Sir Frederick Haines, Commander in Chief of the military forces in India, is greatly to blame for the disaster to General Burrow's command.

The Playful Revolver.

Lancaster, Pa., August 2.—While Frank Stevenson, aged ten, and his brother Willie, children of Wm. Stevenson, of Columbia, were playing "burglars" with their father's revolver, the weapon was discharged, and Frank was instantly killed.

His Last Trip.

St. Louis, Mo., August 2.—Major John E. Simpson, general manager of the Vandalia railroad, died this morning without having returned to consciousness since first attacked, Saturday. The remains will be taken to Michigan City, Ind., for burial.

Cornice Carnival.

Freeport, Ill., August 2.—Last night a cornice, loosened by the high wind, fell to the sidewalk, killing Miss Bertha Dietrick and dangerously injuring a Miss Mezenkamp.

LOST HIS SPEECH.

A Singular Case for Medical Experts to Account for.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 1.—The most singular case that has come under the notice of the medical fraternity for many years is that of Dr. Thomas Rose. About ten days ago he was missed from the breakfast-table, and his landlady, becoming alarmed at his absence, sent her husband to his store in search of him. At eight o'clock he found the store still closed, and none of his neighbors had seen anything of him since the day before. Knowing that he was in the habit of opening soon after five o'clock, they went to his lodging-room, and through a chink in the shutter, saw him lying on his face on the floor, apparently dead, with a pot of coins scattered about him. They forced an entrance to the room and found that he was unconscious, and evidently dying from the effect of poison. Physicians were summoned, and they pronounced his case one of acute vertigo, and thought his recovery doubtful. He remained unconscious for two days, and when he became conscious he was speechless, and although he has recovered completely he cannot speak a word, and there is nothing to indicate that he will ever regain the use of his vocal organs. He converses freely with the aid of a pencil, and says that he closed his store at 10 o'clock the night before he was found and took the cash drawer into his sleeping room. He was in the act of turning on the gas to count the contents of the drawer, when he suddenly felt a dizziness come over him and knew nothing more until he opened his eyes and saw a nurse sitting by him on the second day. He says his tongue refuses to move to his will, and he can not articulate the easiest sounds. His physicians are studying the case carefully.

REMOVING THE OBELISK.

New York, August 2.—The work of removing the obelisk from the ship which brought it here from Egypt was begun to-day.

DEATH OF A SEAMAN.

New York, August 2.—John McBride, a seaman taken from the Havana steamer Major, died in the quarantine hospital to-day.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

The city of Montreal arrived from New York at Queenstown.

Trickett and Hanlan, the oarsmen, have made a second deposit of £50.

The city of Chester from Liverpool brought $525,000 of foreign gold coin to New York.

Another one hundred amnestied communists arrived at Paris from New Caledonia.

The steamer Marseilles was towed to London by the steamer City of Chester, with a shaft broken.

Col. Bodine, captain of the American rifle team, which won in Ireland, has arrived home in New York.

Arrived at New York: The steamships Somerset, from Bristol, Montic from Marseilles and Harald from Copenhagen.

Arrived at Queenstown: The steamers Pennsylvania, from Philadelphia, in charge of the first officer. Capt. Harris died on the passage.

A Paris correspondent telegraphs that if the porte promptly settles the Montenegrin question, naval demonstrations by the powers will be suspended.

There is being distributed in Turkish military circles a printed account of the Afghan disaster, charging the British troops with cowardice and their leaders with utter incapacity.

At Calcutta one leader, Rumpa, of the rebellion, has been shot and several sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The rebellion, however, shows no sign of collapsing, as the British troops cannot stand the unhealthy climate.

Slight Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon while a man named Thompson was out riding with his family the horse became frightened when on the other side of the Calhoun street crossing, and started off at a furious pace. The animal had not proceeded ten rods when the carriage was overturned and the occupants, Mr. Thompson, his wife and three children, were thrown into a large mud hole, and although none of the party sustained severe injuries their respective toilets were somewhat soiled. As soon as the buggy upset the animal freed itself from it and dashed on up the street, where it was subsequently captured. No damage.

Struck by Lightning.

A barn belonging to a farmer named Manganson, living about four miles north of this city, was struck by lightning and together with all its contents totally destroyed. Every effort was made to recover some of the farming implements which were very valuable, but with no success. The loss will foot up at about $4,000, while the insurance in the Farmer's company amounts to $1,000.

To-night.

To-night at the Academy of Music will occur a grand meeting of first voters. The best speakers will be in attendance. Come one—come all.

MONDAY'S MATINEE.

A Select Array of Talent at His Honor's Reception this Morning.

The mayor got down a little late this morning, but when he did come down he came down in a body, and the look of utter disgust that settled around the "phiz" of his several victims who sat inside the railing, was certainly astonishing to behold. Diehl was on hand and Henry Colerick's curly locks swayed to and fro with a pendulum like motion caused by the exhilarating breeze that swept in through the great windows. His honor eyed the array sternly and after bringing his gavel down with a thud, called for an audience with Henry Carll. The fact is that Henry was drunk and disorderly and in the fullness of his heart he offered to send several parties on a trip "to that bourne from which no traveler ever returns." And he might have succeeded in doing this, had not Chief Smith interfered and marched Henry off to the calaboose, where he spent the Sabbath. His honor thought that Henry ought to donate about $10 to the city treasury, but that amount of "lucre" was painfully absent about Henry's person, and, as a natural consequence, he will ornament a stone pile for the next 30 days.

John Campbell and Annie Campbell are two individuals who have sailed down life's stream together. On their voyage they happened to strike this city and attempted to get on the outside of every saloon in town. This they didn't succeed in doing, but the calaboose wall got on the outside of them, just the same, and as they didn't have $5 each this morning their address will be Munson's hotel for the next thirty days.

Charles Nave also belongs to that class of mortals who were put into the world to demolish whisky. Charles is not behind his associates in this respect as he fully demonstrated last Saturday. Officer Kelly found him in Casso's saloon and arrested him. He was let go, as his honor thought that two days in the calaboose was sufficient punishment for his offence.

Frank Yeager, an antiquated old "cuss," came to town yesterday and concluded to show the citizens how artistically he could get drunk. The Mayor came near artistically fining Frank, but the latter's age saved him, and the show was over.

DROWNED.

Eddie Bieke Finds a Watery Grave.

A most heartrending accident took place Saturday evening, about two miles and a half north of the city, near the feeder, on a swing bridge, whereby Edward Bieke, a youth of about eight years of age, found a watery grave. As he was alone at the time it is of course impossible to ascertain the exact facts as to how he came to be drowned, but the following is the most correct version of the affair obtainable: It appears that young Bieke had been assisting some farm hands who were at work in a field near the bridge, and as it was getting late one of the men told him he had better go home, which he did, and started off. Nothing more was thought of him until a member of his family came to the field to find out the cause of his remaining. As the men had seen him start for home they were greatly surprised to learn that he was missing. Search was immediately instituted for him, and presently one of the searchers saw a hat floating on the water near the bridge. There was no longer any doubt but what he had fell into the water and drowned, and boats were procured and search began for the body, which was found some hours after, caught in some underbrush near the bridge. The coroner was immediately notified, an inquest held and a verdict rendered in accordance with the above facts. It is presumed that on his way home he stepped on the bridge to play, fell in the water and was drowned.

GREELEY AMONG THE PIKES.

The Famous Editor Bashing His Feet in a Horse Trough.

At the annual sale of wild lands for taxes in Pike County, last week, several tracts once belonging to Horace Greeley were disposed of. Horace Greeley once owned 2,500 acres of land in Pike County. In 1843 he formed the Sylvanian Society, and established a community on the property after the plan of Fourier, the French social economist. Large buildings were erected, and at one time 125 persons were active members of the society. Mr. Greeley invested $10,000 in the enterprise, but it was a disastrous failure. He believed that he had been made the victim of land sharks and the ultra democratic views of the Pike County natives. This inspired him to publish in the editorial columns of the Tribune several bitter articles against the county, in one of which occurred two expressions which the Pike Countians never forgave. "Pike County," said Mr. Greeley, "is noted only for its scrub oaks, its locofoco majorities, and its rattlesnakes. There are five gallons of whisky to one spelling book in Pike County." When Mr. Greeley ran for President in 1872 Pike County, good at any time for nearly 1,000 Democratic majority, could hardly be induced to give any majority for him. Half of the vote, almost, refused to come out, and the county was just saved to the Democrats, and that was all.

Once, before the Fourierite society had failed, Mr. Greeley paid a visit to the spot. On his way back to New York, the stage coach broke down several miles from Milford. Mr. Greeley walked the rest of the way to this village. He arrived here in the condition of a confirmed tramp. "Uncle Sammy" Dimmick kept hotel here then. He was one of the dozen or so of Whigs that dared the democratic forces in the place. He was a bluff, curt man, but kind and generous. Horace Greeley was his idol. He had never seen him, but often declared that he would consider it the proudest moment of his life to meet the great Whig editor. When Mr. Greeley entered the village after his long and dusty tramp, he chanced to stop at Dimmick's tavern. Uncle Sammy was in the bar-room, and in one of his worst humors. Mr. Greeley walked up to him and in his peculiar falsetto voice said:

"I am very tired and dusty, sir. I would like to have a room where I can wash my feet."

Uncle Sammy looked the seedy and dirty stranger from head to foot. Believing him to be an impudent tramp, he belovewed out, in a voice that could be heard over half the town:

"A room to wash your feet in! Why, you d-d impudent scoundrel, go out to the horse trough and wash your feet!"

A large public trough stood in the street at the corner of the hotel. Mr. Greeley walked quietly out to it, took off his boots, and began washing his feet in the trough. Cornelius W. De Witt, the well known New York insurance president, at that time kept a store opposite Dimmick's tavern. He was also a Whig, and knew Mr. Greeley. He saw the man at the trough washing his feet, and Uncle Sammy standing on the hotel piazza looking at him with intense disgust. De Witt walked over, recognized Mr. Greeley, and at once gave words to his surprise. He beckoned Uncle Sammy to the spot.

"Mr. Dimmick," he said, "I want to introduce you to Horace Greeley, the editor of the New York Tribune." Uncle Sammy never recovered from the mortification he felt over his treatment of the man he would have gone a hundred miles to do honor to. Mr. Greeley took the matter good-naturedly, and spent several days with his Whig admirer.

Who is Porter?

[Davies County Democrat.]

As there are so many republicans who keep asking who Porter, the republican candidate for governor of this state is, we will tell something of him. He was once a democrat, and in 1852 received the nomination by the 8th of January state convention for reporter of the decision of the supreme court and was elected. He published five volumes of the decisions. In 1854 he allied himself with the know-nothing, Maine-law, anti Nebraska party against the democrat, and formally sundered his political affiliations with his old party. Since then he has been a republican, and was elected to congress one term from the Indianapolis district, and for two years last past has been comptroller of the treasury, under an appointment of acting President Hayes. He is a "bloody shirt," ultra radical of the cold-blooded species.
